WE have been asked by several to-day if the Red Corner Clothing House had their opening Saturday, as their rooms were crowded with people from early in the morning until after eleven o'clock at night. The popularity of this well-known house keeps it crowded, and if one judged from that, they would think every day was opening day at the old Red Corner.

AT Mt. Olivet last week, Mrs. Insko got judgment for $300 damages against the Mt. Olivet and Sardis Turnpike Company. In September, 1888, she was thrown from a buggy and had an arm broken, the result of the horse attached to the buggy taking fright at a wagon that had been left standing along the roadside. The amount of damages asked for was $5,000.

PROVED FATAL.

Colonel Goodloe's Wound a Mortal One, and He Joins the Silent Majority.

His Sufferings Ended in Death Sunday Afternoon at 1 O'clock. Swope's Burial.

The awful tragedy at Lexington has been the one topic of conversation on the streets of this city ever since the occurrence. On every hand are heard expressions of sadness and sorrow.

Colonel Swope had many friends and admirers here in both political parties, as did Col. Goodloe also, and the awful end of two such prominent men is lamentable, indeed.

Reports as to Collector Goodloe's condition were eagerly sought after Saturday, and when the news came that he was growing worse, his friends felt that death would soon end his sufferings. The surgical operation performed by the attending physicians late Saturday afternoon showed what they had feared from the first—that the deadly ball had pierced their patient's intestines. He rallied well from the heroic operation, but his condition steadily grew worse. About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon he breathed his last.

Colonel Goodloe leaves a wife and six children, all daughters except one. Says the Louisville Post: "The deceased was born in Madison County in 1841, was the third son of D. S. Goodloe, a prominent merchant of that section of the State, and was descended from a long line of distinguished Virginians. His maternal grandfather was Col. J. Speed Smith, a distinguished officer in the war of 1812, and afterwards a member of Congress. His great-grandfather was General Green Clay, who commanded a brigade in the Northwestern campaign and was a close friend of Gen. Harrison. He was educated at the Transylvania University, from which institution he was graduated in 1861. In the same year he accompanied his uncle, Cassius M. Clay, to Russia, where he was sent as Minister Plenipotentiary by President Lincoln. Mr. Goodloe acted as Secretary of the Legation until 1862, when he returned and joined the Union army. He was appointed Assistant Adjutant-General of Volunteers shortly before his enlistment, in which position he continued until 1864, when he resigned and commenced the practice of law in Lexington. In 1867 he began the publication of the Kentucky Statesman, a Republican newspaper. In 1868 he was elected a delegate to the National Republican convention which nominated Gen. Grant for President, and was appointed a member of a committee to notify that distinguished gentleman of his nomination. In 1873 he was elected to the State Senate, and the following winter was nominated by a unanimous vote by the Republican caucus for United States Senator." He held an important position in the National Executive Committee of his party last year, and at the time of his death was Collector of this district.

Says the Louisville Post: "Colonel A. M. Swope was born in Stanford Ky., about 50 years ago. He was educated in his native town and studied law and was admitted to the bar in that city. He early in life became famous for his oratory, and has been a leader in the Republican party from almost his boyhood days. In 1861 he joined the Union army as a volunteer and won a reputation as a gallant soldier under Buell. At the end of the war he was mustered out of service with the rank of Colonel. He then went to Lexington to live, and there resumed the practice of his profession. His eloquence and ability soon gained him a large clientele in all parts of the State, and he amassed a handsome fortune, principally in Blue-grass land. He has held many positions of trust within the gift of the national administration, and was regarded as one of the ablest men in his party. In the last Kentucky Republican Convention he made a strong fight for John Sherman before that body, but was unsuccessful in his attempt to have the delegates instructed for the Ohio Senator. In 1877 Mr. Swope was appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the Seventh Kentucky district, a position he retained until 1883, when he resigned and was succeeded by the Hon. Charles Stoll."

Colonel Swope's remains were taken to Sanford Saturday and laid to rest Sunday by the side of those of his mother.

Colonel Goodloe's funeral will take place at Lexington to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Revenue Office Closed.

Deputy Collector Baldwin received word this morning to forward all stamps to Lexington, and the office here will be closed until further notice.

ABSOLUTELY · RELIABLE · FOOTWEAR

In the way of Fine Shoes we show this season---the handsomest and best lines made, representing more styles and combinations than was ever before offered in Maysville. Special attention is called to our LADIES' WALKING SHOES, made by the Goodyear Welt process. Equal to hand-work in appearance and finish---superior for comfort and flexibility, perfectly smooth innersoles, without nails, tacks, or threads---and much lower in price. With soles just the proper thickness to prevent moisture or cold from penetrating---often obviating the necessity of rubbers in damp weather---still not stiff or clumsy, but easy to "break in." These come in all shapes and widths, and in qualities to suit the purse of all. In regard to Medium and Low-price Shoes, we have a most complete stock, ranging in price from $1.10 for a Ladies' Genuine Dongola Kid Button, to $1.25, $1.35 and up. WE SELL SOLID GOODS ONLY, such that will prove satisfactory to the wearer. Our prices will be found the lowest right through, where quality is any consideration.
